Coram, Inc. Moves to Focus Efforts on Core Therapies

Denver, CO, April 27, 2006 – Coram, Inc., [Coram] a leading national provider of home infusion and specialty pharmaceutical distribution services, in a move to further focus the company's efforts on its core business and expand its specialty pharmacy offerings, announced today that it has sold the assets of two of its respiratory therapy locations in Lenexa, KS and Plymouth, MI to Lincare, Inc., a provider of in-home respiratory care, infusion therapy and medical equipment.

The sale of these two respiratory therapy locations is part of a larger company strategy to concentrate Coram resources on its core competencies of complex home infusion therapies and specialty pharmacy distribution.

"The divestiture of these respiratory therapy branches allows Coram to focus on its main business line of home infusion, while also investing its capital to expand and grow our CoramRx specialty pharmacy business," said John Arlotta, Chairman and CEO of Coram. "This is a positive move for Coram, as it will allow us to further concentrate our efforts on the businesses and services that are our clear strengths, while continuing to offer quality care to complex home infusion patients. This further solidifies Coram's position as a leader in the home infusion and specialty pharmacy marketplaces."

Coram's home infusion and Specialty Pharmacy operations were unaffected by the transaction.
