Home Inotropic Therapy Medicare Qualification Webinar

With an increased focus on 30-day readmission rates, more and more heart failure programs are evaluating and developing palliative care options. Home inotropic therapy represents one important option for the delivery of palliative care to an increasing number of chronic heart failure patients. One of the biggest logistic hurdles to sending a patient home on inotropic therapy is the Medicare Qualification process.

The Home Inotropic Therapy Medicare Qualification Webinar will provide a comprehensive overview of Medicare's Local Coverage Determination (LCD) as it relates to home inotropic therapy. The presentation will detail the recommended Home Parenteral Inotropic Data Collection form as well as essential supporting documentation. The webinar will also include any new Medicare qualification updates as they become available.

We are pleased to offer the following CE credits for this webinar: 1.0 CCM, 1.0 RN.*
